

William Awomoyi

Having been born and raised in South Croydon, I have seen, first-hand, the boundless potential in which Croydon has to offer. I believe I am the best person for this role because I am reliable, efficient, and able to work well under pressure as well as being able to adapt to various different problems and scenarios thrown at me. If elected as Young Mayor of Croydon, I will work hard to drastically reduce the ever growing crime rates. No one should have to live their lives in fear of crime. I will also look to administer a 'feed the homeless' programme and help cure the dreadful epidemic, which is slowly beginning to taint our borough, drug abuse.

So, enough with the fancy talk, how am I going to carry out these ideas into reality, how am I going to make a positive change for everyone, first I will implement a youth entrepreneurship programme in which youths can apply individually and this will be an incentive for young people to get off the street and do something creative, innovative and enriching for themselves. Secondly, I'll call for more police patrols in the more dangerous areas of Croydon to assist in safeguarding of youths. Furthermore I'll work towards improving drug rehabilitation centres for young people as the reviews are worryingly low and require immediate support. If you also share a desire and passion for the prosperity of Croydon you can vote for me at your school or nearest polling station. Make your mark!
